Your pet was tested today for Heartworms (a parasite transmitted by mosquitos which, as an adult, lives and breeds in the actual heart of an animal), Ehrlichia and Lyme Disease (both of which are blood diseases transmitted by ticks) as well as Anaplasmosis. All four tests were NEGATIVE. It is highly recommended that your pet be placed on a once-monthly heartworm preventative (ask our staff for details) and it is also recommended that your pet be tested annually for Heartworms, Ehrlichia, Anaplasmosis and Lyme Disease.

FECAL FLOTATION TEST REVEALS NO PARASITE EGGS. STOOL HAS NORMAL APPEARANCE UNDER MICROSCOPIC ANALYSIS.
